"TEXAS" TO GET PASSAGE OVER TRACKS

Engineer is Instructed to Prepare Plans for Overhead Foot-bridge

LENGTHY SESSION HELD

Solicitor Instructed to Protect City's Interests in Suit for Deed to Camp Ground Tract.

Instructions were directed by the city council to City Engineer Wells Monday night to prepare plans for an overhead foot bridge over the B. and O. tracks at Webb street, thus providing for an outlet from "Texas," a portion of the city which has been isolated for the past fifteen years or more. A special committee of council, to which was referred the petition from property owners there, recommended the overhead bridge as being the only practicable method of egress from that part of the city.

This was one of the many propositions considered by council in a lengthy session. With the subway matters favorably disposed of, the council was free to give its attention to matters which have been accumulating since the last regular meeting in August. A number of special meetings were necessary to handle the subway business.

The city solicitor was authorized in a resolution to take whatever action he deemed necessary to protect the city's interests in the suit against the Board of Trade, to compel the surrender of the deed for the encampment ground tract now occupied by the Licking Country club. This brought a statement from Solicitor Jones in which he declared that he would take the necessary steps at once to employ efficient counsel to represent the city in any action that might be taken. He explained that he was a stockholder in the Country club and for this reason he was ineligible to act as counsel in any action for or against the club organization. He declared that this fact would not be detrimental to the city's interests as he would give his sanction to any action which the attorneys he represented might deem advisable.

Several resolutions and ordinances for street paving and sewer improvements were acted upon, most of them being passed under suspended rules. The street committee reported favorably on the project of the construction of concrete curb and gutter on Pataskia street and recommended that the legislation be repealed. The law committee reported that new legislation would be necessary to change the route of the Jackson street sewer and recommended that such legislation be passed. A special committee appointed to investigate the feasibility of a passage from "Texas" to East Newark reported that the plan was practicable. The committee recommended the construction of a footbridge six feet in width over the railroad tracks. Councilman Baker, a member of a special committee appointed to confer with the county commissioners regarding the encampment ground, reported on the progress of the conference. He told the council that the body he represented had been invited to join a suit against the Board of Trade. He said a resolution would be presented later in the meeting authorizing the city solicitor to act.

Council Clerk Franklin reported the service of notices on property owners for improving Linden avenue. City Engineer Wells reported bids received on Washington street sewer and North street sewer, both of which were higher than the preliminary estimate. The contracts will be re-advertised. The engineer also reported estimates on the construction of the (Continued on Page 8, Col. 1.)

JUDGE FERNEDING CHIEF JUSTICE OF COURT OF APPEALS

(Associated Press Telegram) Columbus, Sept. 16.—Judge H. L. Ferneding of Dayton was elected chief justice of the court of appeals at a meeting here today of Ohio circuit judges. Judge Phil M. Crow of Kenton was re-elected secretary. Assignment of cases and time of sessions in the eight districts of the state are fixed.

Judge Ferneding is the youngest member of the court. The new chief justice succeeds Judge Richard M. Vorhees of Coshocton, who has served one year, a full term, as the presiding officer over the twenty-four circuit judges representing the eight districts of the state. The chief justiceship is increased in importance by the fact that in addition to presiding over the court of appeals he will have the assignment and transfer of circuit and common pleas judges in districts where the docket may be closed, or the regular judge is disqualified. Judge Ferneding was elected a circuit judge in November, 1910, as a Mystery Surrounds Shooting of Jas. Lehman at Conesville; Bullet Entered Lower Abdomen

Mystery surrounds the shooting of James Lehman, 30, formerly a switchman in Cleveland, who claims to live on Broadway, Newburg, a suburb of the Lake City. The shooting took place near Conesville, Coshocton county about 9:30 Monday evening. Lehman claims he does not know the name of the man who did the shooting, though he admitted to the crew of Passenger train No. 75 that he did know his assailant but would not give his name.

Lehman was removed from a Pennsylvania train here to the Sanitarium in the Bazier & Bradley ambulance. He was suffering from a bullet wound in the groin and his condition was regarded at that time as quite serious.

The injured man was found lying along the track near the telegraph tower, a quarter of a mile east of the Conesville station. According to his own story, he had spent the night in the ditch along the track, being unable to move because of the pain from his wound.

At the Sanitarium Tuesday morning, Lehman appeared reluctant to talk of his trouble, declaring that there was little to tell. He claimed that he met a number of men who were beating their way on a freight train and that the shooting followed a short time after the meeting.

He admitted that some words had been exchanged before the shooting but he denied that there was sufficient provocation for the shooting.

From Conesville comes a different story which is said to have been related by Lehman shortly after he was found Tuesday morning.

Guy Cheney, telegraph operator, saw the victim lying along the track when he went on duty shortly after daylight. At the time, Cheney thought that the man was drunk.

Democrat. He defeated Judge E. B. Dillon of Columbus, who had been nominated by the Republicans to succeed Judge Theodore Sullivan of Troy. Judge Dillon is a Common Pleas judge.

Previous to his election to the bench Judge Ferneding practiced law at Dayton where he was the head of the firm of Ferneding, McCauley & Shea. His district comprises eleven counties, the two largest of which are Franklin and Montgomery.

An important boosters' meeting is called for tonight at 8 o'clock in the Baptist chapel, South Third street, when members of the South Side Citizens' association will get together and talk over plans for furthering improvement of conditions in the South Side. This meeting is of importance to every citizen of Newark, and particularly those living south of the tracks. With this in view, there should be a representative attendance of active workers in the association.

LITTLE BOY IS BADLY BITTEN BY BULL DOG

His companion for several years and his best playmate, a pet bull dog belonging to the small son of James Morrello, turned on the child yesterday and severely lacerated his arm.

The little boy was playing with the dog as usual and in their romps the dog suddenly became enraged and buried its fangs in the right forearm of the child. The flesh was badly torn and Dr. Postle was called to dress the injury.

As the dog has shown no signs of rabies, it is not probable it will be killed.

Judge Aldrich Announces Suspension of the Thaw Hearing

ARRAY OF LEGAL TALENT

At Littleton When Case Was Called—Thaw is Jubilant Over His Victory in U. S. District Court.

(Associated Press Telegram) Littleton, N. H., Sept. 16.—Harry Kendall Thaw, fugitive from Matteawan, won a victory in the United States District court here today when Judge Aldrich indefinitely suspended a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus obtained by the Thaw lawyers. This means that Thaw will have a chance to check his immediate return to New York state in the event Governor Fellner orders his extradition after the hearing to be held at Concord.

William Traverser Jerome specially deputized to bring about Thaw's return to the asylum tried to block the postponement on the ground that the writ had been obtained as a matter of expediency. He produced an affidavit of a newspaper man, quoting Thaw's counsel as saying this but he was unwilling to press the matter, after counsel for Thaw had assured the court that the application for the writ had been entirely regular.

"What do you propose to do insisted the Judge.

Jerome hesitated. "The immediate question," continued the court, "is whether the proceedings shall go on or be suspended. It is to the judgment of the court that a suspension would not menace the interests of either side and in view of the fact that the Governor hesitates to proceed with the extradition hearing until the status of this matter is assured. I suspend it. It is not adjourned but suspended and I suggest that either side notify me within six days when they are prepared to go on with it."

Thaw sat with his eyes riveted on the court. His lawyers were grinning. He was reminded back to the joint custody of Sheriff Drew of Coos county, who arrested him after his recent deportation from Canada, and United States Marshal Nute.

Counsel for both sides, after talking with the Governor by telephone, agreed that the extradition hearing would not be held until Tuesday, September 23. The lawyers then went into conference to decide where to hold the fugitive meanwhile.

Crowds packed Main street in front of the court building and cheered Thaw as he was driven to a local hotel for dinner.

POLICE SEEK WOMAN FOR A MURDER CLUE

(Associated Press Telegram) New York, Sept. 16.—A gold watch, a silk handkerchief and clothing rotted by long exposure to the weather gave the police today little clue to the identity of the man whose body was found yesterday in a dump of bushes near the New York Central railroad tracks at Hastings on Hudson, a New York suburb. A hole in the man's coat and a shot hole in the neck left little doubt that he was murdered.

The police and their agencies to finding the man whose behavior near the scene led to the discovery of the body. A path worn through the tall grass in the street to the thicket where the victim lay indicated that someone had made frequent visits to the place since the man was killed a month or more ago.

Although the elements had left little but a skeleton the coroner described the victim as 5 feet 6 inches tall, weight about 155 pounds, light hair, blue eyes, best quality of clothing was of the best quality. A woman's body the police picked up at a woman's closet and a small, soiled, and a satchel made from the silk lining torn from a coat sleeve and filled with stones.

IMPEACHMENT TRIAL BEGINS THURSDAY

(Associated Press Telegram) Albany, N. Y., Sept. 16.—Governor Sulzer and his counsel are busy preparing for the hearing of the impeachment trial on Thursday. The governor and his counsel have given no information concerning their plans for the defense, but it is understood they are practically completed, at a conference yesterday between D. Cadz Herrick and former State Senator Harvey D. Hittman.

BATTLEFIELD OF CHICKAMAUGA IS VETERANS MECCA

(Associated Press Telegram) Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 16.—Heavy clouds hovered over Chattanooga today, the second day of the 17th annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic and allied organizations. The welcome extended visiting veterans by citizens at a reception last night will be supplemented tonight when addresses of welcome will be delivered by Governor Ben W. Hooper of Tennessee; William D. Atchey, commander of the Department of Tennessee; Mayor T. C. Thompson of Chattanooga and others. A feature of the encampment today was the reunion of veterans who participated in the battle of Chickamauga. These veterans passed the morning in tours over the battlefield.

Election of officers including a president to succeed the late General Gates Thurston of Nashville, is the principal business of today's program of the 17th annual meeting of the Society of the Cumberland. The veterans' parade will be a feature tomorrow. It was announced that a detachment of Forest's cavalry would march at the head of the Ohio division.

BOARD OF REVIEW HAS CONCLUDED ITS ACTIVITIES

The Newark Board of Review concluded its activities of three months, Tuesday morning. During the long sessions the board has had a hard task in arriving at proper valuations on Newark property, and while in several instances the original valuations made by assessors were declared excessive and reductions made, on the whole the board made a decided increase in valuations.

This year's total property valuation in Newark, for tax purpose, will not have been arrived at until sometime within the next ten days, said Auditor Riley, Tuesday. Last year's figures, however, gave Newark property a total valuation of $27,757,240. The board of review has found an increase, due exclusively to new buildings during the year, of approximately $230,000.

However, until total valuations are figured from assessors' reports for this year, the percentage of increase found by the board cannot be determined.

The board went into session the first Monday in June, and in course of its deliberations examined 366 persons and corporations. The organization consists of W. H. Anderson, chairman; J. W. Horner, vice chairman; Frank A. Bolton, secretary, and Carl Stewart, clerk.

CLAIM HALF OF THE SIGNATURES ARE FRAUDULENT

(Associated Press Telegram) Columbus, Sept. 16.—State officials this afternoon claimed that more than half of the 12,000 signatures collected in Franklin county by the circulators of the Warnes and Kilpatrick law petitions were fraudulent.

The estimate was made after an all-morning session before Secretary of State Graves in which nearly 150 petitions had been thrown out as fraudulent after testimony brought out by Attorney General Hogan developed the startling fact that a large percent of the supposed signatures were either dead, bogus or secured under flagrant misrepresentation of the intent of the three laws upon which the referendum was asked. J. W. Birch, an attaché of the state labor commissioner's office and Mayor D. L. Styler of Gahanna a state factory inspector, uncovered the alleged frauds in the Franklin county petitions.

WHITLOCK WILL NOT BE CANDIDATE FOR MAYORSHIP

(Associated Press Telegram) Toledo, Sept. 16.—Immediately upon his return today from a six weeks' vacation in Waukegon, Mich., Mayor Brand Whitlock resigned from the Toledo ticket upon which he had been nominated during his absence for a fourth term as mayor. The Toledo city ticket is a citizens' ticket nominated by petition after the independents who have elected Whitlock three times, nominated City Solicitor Cornell Schreiber for Mayor. Whitlock had advised the independents that he would not accept a fourth term.

Congressman I. R. Sherwood of the Toledo district has announced that while his aid was not solicited he will not oppose the appointment of Whitlock as minister to Belgium, a matter now under consideration at Washington.

THREE SLEEPERS LEAVE THE RAILS: THREE INJURED

(Associated Press Telegram) Philadelphia, Sept. 16.—Three persons were injured today by the overturning of three sleeping cars on the night express for New York from Pittsburgh last night at 3 o'clock.

The accident occurred at Coatesville, three miles west of Philadelphia. The train was running fast when the sleepers of steel construction left the rails and turned over on their sides. One of the cars slid half way down a fifteen-foot embankment. There were sixty-eight persons in the sleepers. The accident is said to have been due to the spreading of rails.

PASTOR WHO MURDERED GIRL ALSO ENGAGED IN COUNTERFEITING BILLS

Plate From Which Gold Certificate May Have Been Struck Was Found In Rooms of Confessed Murderer of Anna Ammiller

NEW YORK DENTIST PLACED UNDER ARREST

Technical Charge of Counterfeiting Placed Against Him, Although He May Have Been Confederate of Rev. Hans Schmidt—Housekeeper of Dentist, Young Girl of 21, is Held as Material Witness.

(Associated Press Telegram) New York, Sept. 16.—Stripping from New York's river murder its mysteries, the police bared today a nest of crime, feathered, they claim, by the Rev. Hans Schmidt, confessed slayer of Anna Ammiller, and his pal, Dr. Ernest A. Muret, dentist by day, by night alleged counterfeiters.

Muret is under arrest on a technical charge of having in his possession a pistol, in violation of the Sullivan law. He was arrested early this morning after detectives ransacked Schmidt's apartments had uncovered evidence to show that Schmidt was a counterfeiter. This evidence led to a flat rented by a man under the name of George Miller in which were found all essentials to the counterfeiter's craft. The janitress of the building, brought face to face with Muret, recognized him as Miller. Muret, unaware of his impending apprehension, recognized her at once—and said so—as the woman from whom he had rented the flat under his pseudonym.

Schmidt and Muret, the janitress said, and Muret admitted, had spent long hours together in the flat. They told the renting agents that they were medical students and wanted the flat as a place for making experiments necessitated by their studies.

What they really did, the police allege, was to experiment in counterfeiting.

After detectives had placed Muret under arrest, they took into custody as a material witness the maid employed at his dental office. She said she was Bertha Zech and protested with sobs that she knew nothing of the crime of which her employer was suspected. The police, busy with Muret, had found little time to ply her with questions this morning, but expected to pry from her during the day whatever she might know concerning the counterfeiting operations. With Muret locked up detectives set about searching his office. There they found in addition to such equipment as a dentist uses in practicing his profession a revolver and all kinds of obnoxious instruments, several surgical saws and bone forceps. The finding of these instruments, coupled with the fact that Muret and Schmidt had been cronies for some months caused the detectives to press with renewed vigor the search for something which might directly connect the dentist with the murder of Anna Ammiller.

A strong physical resemblance between Muret and Schmidt led the detectives to question the dentist as to his possible relationship to the priest. Muret claimed there was none. Inspector Fauriol in charge of the detective bureau was of different mind. "The features are same," he said. "The eyes are the same. The noses are the same. The ears are the same. These two men are not brothers, they are closely related."

The copper plate from which spurious bills were struck was made, in the opinion of detectives by an expert engraver. The maker may have been the priest or the dentist, but detectives believe that it was neither. They sought such an expert today as an accomplice. The bills were imitations of $20 yellowbacks. Schmidt's pretensions to insanity, in the opinion of Coroner Feinberg, have been dealt a death blow by the baring of his record as a counterfeiter.

"Father Schmidt impresses me as an unscrupulous man with a master mind," said Mr. Feinberg. William Flynn, chief of the United States secret service, reached New York today and began an investigation of Schmidt and Muret's counterfeiting methods and plan.

Muret told the police he was born in Chicago. Framed in his office was a membership certificate issued at Chicago December 23, 1911 by the Dental Protective Association of the United States of America. When arraigned today on a technical charge of having a pistol in his possession Muret was held in $5,000 bail for trial. He waived examination.

(Associated Press Telegram) New York, Sept. 16.—A plate from which counterfeit ten dollar gold certificates may have been struck, found in the rooms of the Rev. Hans Schmidt, the confessed murderer of Anna Ammiller, whose body, he told the police, he cut up and cast into the waters of the Hudson river in an effort to hide his crime, led to the arrest shortly after midnight this morning of Ernest Arthur Muret, a dentist on the technical charge of counterfeiting.

With Dr. Muret, was held Bertha Zech, a girl 21 years old, who was his housekeeper, as a material witness on the counterfeiting charge preferred against her employer.

After the finding of the copper counterfeiting plate in Schmidt's room, the detectives ransacked the priest's personal papers and discovered a receipted bill for rent having been paid by a "George Miller," for an apartment at 516 West 124th street, and there the detectives allege they found a complete outfit for the manufacture of photographic prints such as might be used in making counterfeit bills. Here, also, the detectives told of having found the half burned parts of several impressions of a $10 gold certificate. Examination disclosed that they might have been printed from the plate earlier in the night in the rooms of Schmidt at the rectory of St. Joseph's church where he was acting as a priest at the time of his arrest for the murder of Anna Ammiller.

From sources which Inspector Fauriol refused to divulge he stated that he had traced the George Miller, whose name was signed to the rent receipt to the office of Dr. Muret.

The janitress, Mrs. Mary Bowie, owner of the apartment at the 134th street address went with detectives to the dentist's office, where he also lived and positively identified him as George Miller. In reply to questions put to him by Inspector Fauriol, (Continued on Page 12, Col. 3.)

State Auditor Donahey Is Against the Proposed Short Ballot Amendment

(Associated Press Telegram) Columbus, Sept. 16.—State Auditor Donahey today came forward with cold figures intended to show the short ballot amendment, if adopted at the November election, would lead to the inevitable creation of a gubernatorial patronage list of from 10,000 to 15,000 names, who would receive between $5,000 and $10,000 in annual salaries. His statement, which is extensive, is issued in answer to recent attacks on his short ballot policy made by Mayor Fisher, secretary of the Civic League, Cleveland. Auditor Donahey takes a few personal hot shots at Mr. Fisher.

He points out that under the short ballot system, the governor would have power and would be forced practically to name not only nearly 6,000 tax officials, providing the Warnes act is not killed by referendum, 2714 officers and employees of 20 state institutions, and 1761 in various state offices, boards, bureaus, and commissions, but also 22,000 election officers.

"By making the secretary of state an appointive officer, the governor would get control of the election machinery of the state, and then by the small and easy change in the election laws, the governor would secure control of appointment of boards of deposit, state supervisors of elections in all counties," says Auditor Donahey. "As a result he would have it in his power to name every election clerk and judge in the entire state."

Mr. Donahey poses fun at the suggestion made by Mr. Fisher that the appointive power of the governor would be restricted by the authority of the state civil service board. "First we adopt the short ballot so the governor can appoint all his subordinates and then we accept the civil service to take this out of his hands, so he cannot remove those who prove themselves inefficient. Yet all the while we hold him responsible for their acts."

Examples of national civil service do not seem to appeal to Mr. Donahey for he exclaims: "National civil service is permeated with politics and has been a disgusting force all these years. What such a thing would prove to be in Ohio remains to be seen if we adopt the short ballot system."

Mr. Donahey expressed the belief the governor should have power to appoint such minor officials as ward assessors, to be consistent with the short ballot and centralization of authority principle. At the same time he deprecates the system.

MASTERPIECE OF ORATORICAL CASTIGATION

Kleagmont, Congressman Stanley, of Kentucky, Plays Brassy Rhyme of Opposition Leaders in House.

Washington, Sept. 16.—Old times returned to the House yesterday. The currency bill came up under the five-minute debate rule, and while the sum total of man knowledge on the principles underlying financial economics was probably not noticeably increased by the contributions from the earnest spokesmen, the literature of politics is certainly the richer for yesterday's session.

Republicans and Progressives most valiantly endured their Democratic brethren, who turned in kind, and everybody made pages and pages of political reading and had a vastly good time.

As for currency, some progress was made with the bill, though nobody paid much attention to that. Politics was the main theme.

As if to give just the added touch to make the perfect, the mellifluous tone of Augustus Owsley Stanley of Kentucky, Ky., was heard in the chamber.

The Kentuckian, who is regarded by many as the orator of the House, rarely speaks except on important occasions.

Not since the days before and after the Steel Trust investigation has his resonant notes been heard to such effect. It was more than reminiscent; it was resurrection. Republicans and Progressives had been hurling barbed sentences at the Democrats for their subservience to the caucus.

It was after Victor Murdock, the Progressive floor leader, had added his exhortation to the general abuse of Democrats that Stanley arose and in clarion tones declaimed the following masterpiece of the forensics of castigation:

"Mr. Chairman: While I respect that love of independence as voiced by my friend, Mr. Murdock, it grieves me beyond measure to see it made a travesty upon the floor of this House."

"Better have a crimson courtesan lead modest maidens in paths of purity, better some escaped convict pose as the arbiter and censor for honest men, than to learn of freedom from this, the most abject apostle and most subservient slave Joe Cannon ever had."

"This gentleman who has just addressed us has attained an unenviable eminence by his prompt obedience to any command, by his silence under any lash, by his quick defense of any kind of gag; and here, with the marks of his servitude upon him, before the hair has grown enough to cover the mark of the collar upon his neck, before the imprints of the shackles are effaced from his wrists and ankles, and before the echoes of his voice have died in this hall, where but lately he defended every Republican outrage, he arises here to lecture Democrats, forsooth about independence."

"There is one difference between Democratic harmony and Republican and Democratic discipline. We today are inspired by the patriotism, by the courage, by the splendid genius of a beloved and trusted leader. You were never led; you were driven by the horrid lash of a brutal boss, until in your wrath, like a blind Samson, you pulled the temple down upon your own devoted heads. We answered to a call; you obeyed the goad driven into your unwilling and quivering flesh. And yet this boss-driven, yoked and goaded party, spewed from the mouths of an indignant people because you had betrayed them, because you had surrendered your independence as their representatives, now assumes to bewail our lack of spirit."

"And now the gentleman from Wyoming (Mondell), wearing a vile mask that a Gorgon would disown, an eye of parchment and a cheek of stone."

Dares to prate about caucus tyranny and the domination of a boss. If we must be told of caucus rule, if we must be told of petty tyranny, for God's sake find among your party some man whose back is not marked by the lash and whose record is not blackened by the defense of the very iniquities he now pretends to condemn."

BARKOOT CO. HAS SPLENDID ATTRACTIONS

Big Carnival Carries Twenty Tented Exhibitions and Gives Number of Free Acts.

The Barkoot Amusement company opened a week's engagement on the Jefferson street athletic grounds just south of the intersection of West Main and Eleventh street.

In the coming of the amusement company Newark will be treated to a number of high-class attractions which are not found with the average carnival companies. Over twenty attractions under canvas are exhibited, and every thing is neat and clean and up-to-date.

The Barkoot organization arrived Sunday from Mt. Vernon, where they exhibited last week, and consisted of twenty-one car loads of tents, seats, scenery, costumes, band, freaks, advertising matter and ballyhoo.

Mr. Barkoot offers a line of attractions that are decent and legitimate and which were literally patronized on the opening day.

Prof. Mummolo's Italian band, an excellent concert organization, gave free concerts on the public square and in front of newspaper offices Monday.

The band is one of the best ever heard in the city.

Among the special attractions the company offers is a troupe of real Russian dancers, who carry medals to prove they have won imperial favor in St. Petersburg. There's the inevitable Japanese troupe of acrobats, with novelties that are called thrillers. There's "Betty, the Alligator Girl," who bears a close resemblance to the scaled denizen of the tropics and who is regarded as one of the greatest living freaks. There's also Jonny Webb, sometimes known as the original "Billy Bounce." Jonny tips the beam at something like 395 pounds in his birthday clothes.

Also there's the Ten-in-one show, with a two-week old mink, the "Human fish," and many other interesting features. There's the Jesse James Wild West show, the Strange Girl, the Oriental attractions, with Hindu charmers, etc., and the Circus Royale, exhibiting ten circus and vaudeville acts which Mt. Vernon says are good. The ferris wheel and merry-go-round are on the job, of course. Besides, there are three free acts nightly and two concerts daily by the excellent band.

Newarkites are invited to come out to-night and witness the "Leap for Life" by the upside-down equilibrium, one of the free acts and the marvelous work of Alexander Thomas, the strongest man in the world, who actually lifts the largest dumbbell ever cast, weighing 325 pounds.

Mr. Lee Noyes, publicity agent and secretary for the Barkoot company, is enthusiastic over the outlook for business in Newark. "Our clean, decent and moral shows which we are exhibiting will appeal to your people," said Mr. Noyes, and will prove a great factor in packing the shows daily.

Mr. Noyes is one of the best known press agents in the country, and has been in advance of some of the most noted stars, including Nat Goodwin, Richard Carle and Lillian Russell. He is an indefatigable worker and a splendid "booster" for the Barkoot company.

WOULD REPLACE LEAF OF MYRTLE WITH BANANA

Washington, Sept. 16.—Shooting the dove of peace from off its perch, John Barrett, director general of the Panama-American Union today installed the banana as the emblem of international tranquility, at least so far as Latin-America is concerned. In a letter addressed to the senate and house conference on the tariff bill, protesting against the proposed duty of the fruit, he portrayed the humble banana, as a powerful civilizing influence.

"The building of the banana business has done more than any other individual influence, material or political to bring about conditions of prosperity, sanitation, health and peace in these low lying coast lines of the Caribbean and Gulf of Mexico, which, previous to the banana area were largely given up to wild jungles, malaria, shiftless peoples and the haunts of insipient revolutions."

The dove of peace, it was said by one of the conferees after he had read Mr. Barrett's appeal hereafter should carry a banana in its beak instead of the useless ornamental twig leaf of myrtle.

of Topcoating and Overcoating is far and away ahead of any display in these lines ever made in Newark. There are natty weaves for the young man—quiet patterns for the conservative business man, and the favorites for the men who were young half a century ago. A purchase from us this season will carry a convincing inducement to the time you come for another, a season hence. We are busier than ever—our work is degrees better than ever before. To buy without knowing what we can do for you is an injustice to the power of your money. You may take time to drop in for a look at least, and we'll see that you have prompt and courteous attention.

Uncle Walt's Philosophy

Free Weather.

The cost of living is so great, we all lament together, we therefore should appreciate the fact that there's free weather. This is a blessing and rare, and all our troubles should rhyme it: the poorest man may have his share, free gratis, of the climate. He may have weather rich and ripe, what luxury is sweet. No trust can pump it through a pipe, or run it through a meter. And yet, alas, this precious boon we do not rightly cherish. In March, December, January, June, we're using words, misanthropic, abusing everything that's sent, the rain, the drought, the blizzard, we're all kinds of discontent, from a clear through to a storm. We ought to cry, "ungrateful set!" when down our whiskers, "it's not cost a nickel!" We ought to cry when it comes the sheet, "when raging floods are frothing, when we have a broken ear and foot." We're getting this for nothing! So let us strive to mend our ways and show we're sons of merit, and if they ship us "leaky days, why, we'll just grin and bear it."

RAIN INTERFERES WITH THE PROGRAM AT CELEBRATION

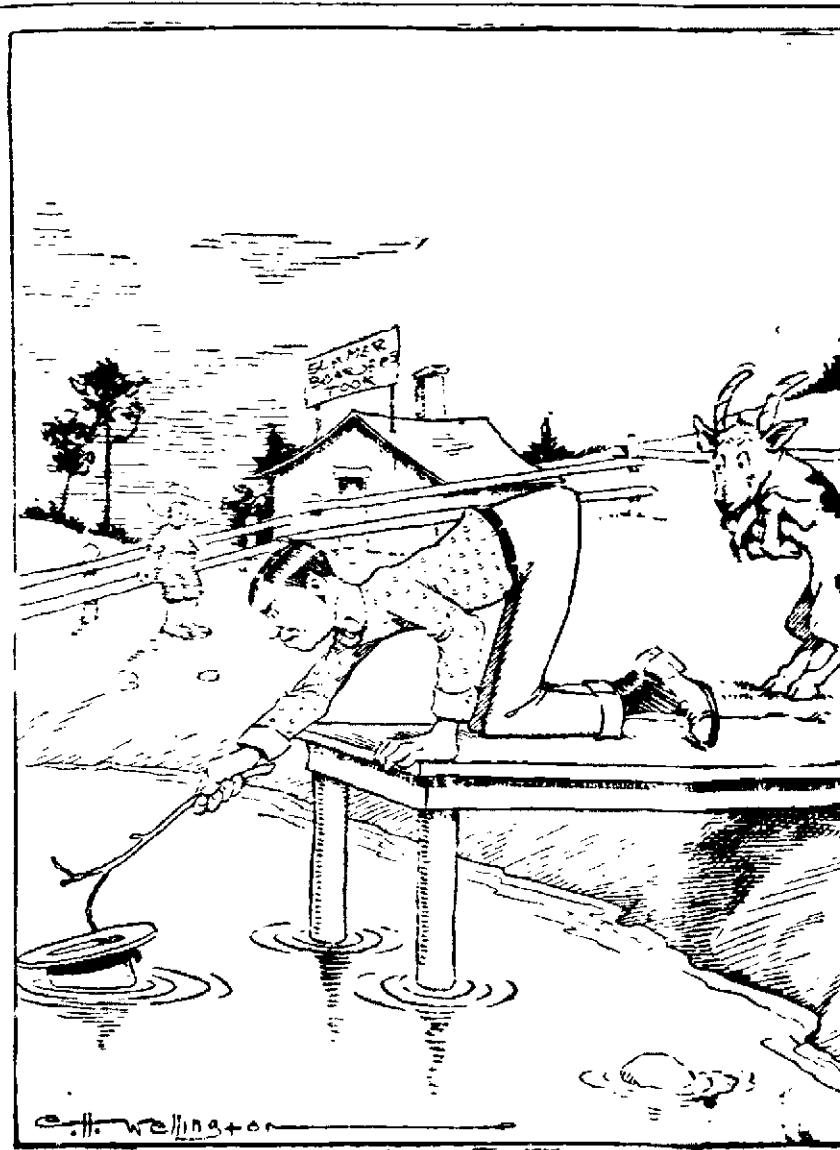

(Associated Press Telegram) Cleveland, Sept. 16.—Rain interfered with the successful fulfillment of all the plans for the Perry Centennial celebration here today. The presentation of flags to 30,000 school children went on, however, and it was expected that a children's pageant, scheduled for late in the afternoon, would be staged. Tonight there will be an illuminated motorboat parade in the harbor, and musical programs and patriotic addresses in all the city parks.

WHAT IS IT?

What name for home?
Answer to Monday's puzzle.—Sawdust.

—AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME

HEALTH HINT FOR TODAY.

To Disperse Wrinkles.
Lines in the face may arise from various causes. Loss of flesh will make the skin loose, and with this diminution of the fat, which fills up the cracks and lines, the skin will naturally lose its smooth appearance and fall into wrinkles. The great thing therefore is to counteract this tendency to lines by applying to the skin some emollient lotion of a nourishing nature, combined with an astringent wash to tighten the skin. A good cream of pure olive oil will do this if rubbed into the skin circular fashion. If the lines spread from the eyes to the hair.
If underneath the eyes, gently smooth them out by rubbing, not upward, but beginning from the inner corner downward with semicircular movement, working the oil or cream well in with the first and second fingers. Lines from the nose to the chin should be rubbed toward the cheek, and those across the forehead from side to side of the face not up and down.
It is also an excellent idea to massage the face all over with a little fresh cream, while the natural oil in the fingers will do much to prevent and drive them away if this friction is employed regularly for five minutes every night. Before rubbing bathe the face in warm water, not too hot; then with soft cold water, into which a few drops of violet vinegar have been added, give the countenance a last lavage.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Man in The Moon and His Little Friends.

The Minister Talked to Him About It.

THE man in the moon was shining down very agreeably. Jack and Evelyn had pointed him out to daddy for about the hundredth time. Sometimes they thought he was frowning, sometimes they thought he looked sad, and sometimes they thought he was smiling. Daddy could never see any difference in his expression, though, of course, being the right kind of a daddy, he did not say so.

The man in the moon, as perhaps you may have heard, carries a bundle of sticks over his shoulder. If you think so please do not mention it to Jack and Evelyn should you meet them. They will look at you in surprise and pity your ignorance. They believe that the man in the moon carries a bag over his shoulder.

You see, one night as they were pointing out the man in the moon to daddy they asked him what the man had on his shoulder, and daddy replied: "Why, a bag, of course. It was this way: The man in the moon lives all by himself. He is a lonely widower or old bachelor or something like that and has neither wife nor chicks to take care of him.

"The man in the moon has two companions. One of these is a tame rabbit and the other a dog. Sometimes you can make these out on the face of the moon when the moon cannot be seen there.

"The little tame rabbit is very useful to the man in the moon. He does chores for him and sometimes runs errands. The little Japanese children say the tame rabbit grinds rice. They have believed this and talked about it for hundreds of years, so, of course, it must be so. This rice is no doubt to make rice cakes for the luncheon, dinner or tea of the man in the moon. There is, of course, plenty of green cheese for the man in the moon, but he gets tired of it. That is the reason he came down to get some cold plum porridge.

"The dog is not much use to the man in the moon. He is a hunting dog, and some say that the man and the dog and rabbit are all in the moon because the man was too fond of hunting rabbits. He even hunted them on Sunday, and when the minister or somebody talked to him about it the man wished he were in the moon or some place where he could hunt rabbits in peace. And now he is there and just hates rabbit hunting. If he were not good to the little tame rabbit now it would not be so fond of him.

"Oh, yes; about the bag? The moon man has nobody to carry the rice home for the little rabbit to grind for their rice cakes. The dog won't carry it home on his back, for it keeps him busy lolling over the edge of the moon barking back at the dogs on earth who bark up at him whenever they see the moon shining in the sky. So the man has to carry it himself."

The State's Farms to be Utilized to Maintain Its Own Institutions

Within the last six months the state paid over $100,000 for food supplies consumed in the various state institutions. The state farms produced $114,000 worth of foodstuffs in that time. And there are 18 big farms containing 9000 acres of Ohio's finest land.

Any farmer knows the commonwealth ought to do better. Governor Cox, owner of a highly productive farm, quickly agreed with the members of the State Board of Administration that a genuine farmer, with practical and scientific experience was needed.

Now Charles McIntyre has been appointed the commonwealth's first state farmer, with orders to make the state farms supply the foodstuffs consumed in the 18 state institutions under the control of the Board of Administration.

"It will take time, but it can be done, says," McIntyre. "Science and system will work wonders, and they are going to have the supreme chance to demonstrate their value now. We're going to make object-lessons of the state farms for Ohio farmers."

A big task has been laid out for McIntyre, but he is equal to it. Wooster and Ohio State University, and the State Agricultural Experiment stations at Wooster have all contributed to the new state farmers' education. Model farms in Paulding, Clermont, Miami and Hamilton counties are all his creation, and the services rendered there are supreme recommendations of his genius in this line of endeavor.

"All that was learned from these experiment farms will be applied to the state farms," says McIntyre. "There will be no hit-and-miss method. Every advanced principle known in the breeding and raising of live stock, the planting and care of orchards, the improvement and fertilization of the land will be applied. The various farms will raise only those crops to which they are best adapted. Scientific planting based on rotation of crops will be practiced. We are going to raise the best corn and wheat and bread the best live stock so that when Ohio farmers want top notch seed for their farms and first prize stock to breed from they can get them from the state farms."

The government having moved to dissolve the coal trust, there is now a good excuse for another advance in price.

The Canadians couldn't be expected to favor Shaw's freedom when it was such an honor to have him in their jails.

Mrs. Pankhurst is going to be very quiet on her American trip, though of course she ought to burn a few buildings to cheer up her followers.

Oysters are a correct order now that September has come, but your best girl won't be satisfied with them while they sell so much cheaper than lobsters.

None of the men on that train would give up their lower berth for Miss Eleanor Wilson, but your stenographer would have found some way to put them out.

How many society girls would take time from their empty lives to take part in a simple event to give pleasure to a neighborhood and raise a little money for a noble cause? Some do, we know, but generally the froth of the world infers their purposes and their thoughts, and they do very little that is unselfish. But look at those Wilson girls. The loveliness, the beauty, the simplicity of their lives are what make Woodrow Wilson a great president. Some people think it is politics. It is nothing of the kind. It is his girls.

On Second Thought

Edna Teachers, who started to custom of laughing and who party at meal times, was born only several years ago to-day. He and the girl in union. The man who put the girl in grand opera was never captured. The Arctic ocean is the shallowest of all the oceans. It is only two feet deep. Yet this is quite deep enough to make wading extremely dangerous.

Broadly speaking, an American is a man who invades against the brutality of the bull fight, and laughs heartily when the umpire is injured by a foul tip.

Edna Willey says every device, except that of burglary, has been suc-

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS.

Evening stars: Mercury, Jupiter, Mars, Saturn, Venus, Mars. Planet Mercury in superior conjunction with the sun at 3 p. m.; changes from a morning to an evening star setting west by south in the early evening.

Society

A very pleasant surprise party was given on Saturday evening, honoring Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Weiss at their home in Yaphata. Mr. and Mrs. Weiss will leave soon for Akron, O., where they expect to make their home. The evening was spent in games and social conversation.

Delicious refreshments were served to the following: Mr. and Mrs. I. U. Weiss, Mr. and Mrs. William Gregg, Mr. and Mrs. Cash Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Weiss, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Eckelberry, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Price, Mr. and Mrs. William Woolver, Mr. and Mrs. William Garrett, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Spiker, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Weiss, Mr. and Mrs. David Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. William Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. George Morrow, Mrs. Jacob Weiss, Mrs. Elizabeth Vangulisher, Mrs. Eliza Evans, Mr. Insley Hughes, Misses Maud Weiss, Della Morrow, Mildred Hughes, Martha Weiss, Alice Weiss, Aleta Williams, Hazel Weiss, Messrs. Charles Spiker, George Woolver, Earl Spiker, and Fred Spiker.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Hartman entertained with a three course dinner at their pretty country home near Kirkersville, Sunday, for the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Miller and son, Benjamin of Oakwood avenue, this city, Mr. Willis Parkinson, Mrs. Alice Scoonover and Miss Blanche Miller of Columbus, Mrs. Martha Miller and Mrs. Sarah Hartman of Kirkersville.

Mrs. W. C. Gardner entertained with an auction bridge party at her Hudson avenue home on Tuesday afternoon. The game concluded the trophies were awarded to Mrs. Harry P. Scott and Mrs. A. R. Pitzer. Six tables of players participated in the game.

HAYNES-JOHNSON.
A very pretty home wedding was solemnized at the future home of the young couple, when Miss Ruth S. Johnson was united in marriage to Mr. Harry D. Haynes on Sunday morning at 7:30 o'clock. The ceremony was solemnized in the completely furnished new home in South Fifth street.

The marriage service was read by Rev. H. O. Davis, pastor of the F. B. church of Bremen, O., an uncle of the groom. The beautiful ring service was used. The bride was attended and wore her traveling suit of blue with hat to harmonize. The ceremony was witnessed by the immediate families.

Mr. and Mrs. Haynes left for a short trip and on their return will be at home after October 1. In South Fifth street. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Johnson of North Morris street and has been employed as bookkeeper at the Weiland Greenhouse. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Haynes of 12 South Fifth street and is a machinist at the American Bottle company.

A benefit card party was given at the home of Mrs. William Stapleton in East Newark on Monday evening and 17 tables filled with players took part in the game. The first prizes were received by Mr. Reagan and Mrs. Driscoll, while the second souvenirs were awarded to Mr. Ed. Ritter and Mrs. Fisher. The money will be donated to the Church of the Blessed Sacrament.

Mr. Frank Locke's birthday occurred recently and a number of his friends determined not to let this important epoch in his life pass un-noticed and determined that if he had forgotten it, they had not, and planned to give him a genuine old-fashioned surprise party at his home about five miles north of Newark.

To this end they secured a big van and those who lived in Newark embarked for the Locke home. But "the worm turned" and an accident happened about a mile before reaching their destination, which put the surprise up to the plotters.

A fire came off the big vehicle, and the party was marooned, and about this time the intended victim passed in his automobile with a passenger just enroute to Newark to catch a train.

He passed the party and in response to their insistent cries, called back to them that he was in a hurry and came on to Newark.

On his return to his home the tire had not been fixed and he stopped to find out the trouble.

"Where were you bound?" he asked.

"To your house to tender you a birthday surprise," was the response rather reluctantly given.

"Well, I will get you there, but I think the joke is on you," said Frank, and all agreed with him.

However, he made several trips to his home and back to the stranded vehicle, and thus conveyed all to his home, where the day was spent in jolly social intercourse and good cheer.

By a similar system of relay work he took all to their homes at a late hour, having spent a most enjoyable time.

Not the least of the day's pleasant features was a scrumptious dinner, which was served early in the afternoon, presided over by Mrs. Locke, in a most gracious manner. Those present were:

Messrs. and Mesdames Felix Nutter, Harry Bowen, Frank Wince, P. A. Goode, William Murrell, W. H. Wilkin, C. G. Niebel, M. R. Catt, Frank Catt, Mitchell Sellers, Mace Catt, John Catt, R. H. Spiker, Arch Lytle, Reuben Smith, Fred Iden, Will Williams, F. B. Sinsabaugh, Mrs. Mary Euston, Mrs. Marple, Mrs. William Bell, of Cambridge. Misses Ruth Niebel, Minnie E. Wells, Treva Nutter, Lona Wilkin, Minnie Wilkin, Maude Harner, Alva Nutter, Frances Marple, Katherine Sinsabaugh, Letha Jones, Leontine Sinsabaugh, Ola Wilkin.

Messrs. Dale Slater, Charles Spiker, John Spiker, Serle Spiker, Fred Spiker, James Richter, Merwin Iden, Joseph Sinsabaugh.

THE FORWARD-LOOKING WOMAN

THE FIRESIDE WOMAN

By Barbara Boyd

Clever Women Of The Past

"BRAINY women of the past," she had rather an unhappy time, don't you think, forward-looking Woman?

"Oh, I don't know," replied the Fireside Woman. "They didn't have all the problems of the present day to worry about."

"Problems wouldn't have worried them. It would have been a joy to help solve problems that they couldn't help solve."

"I don't know," replied the Fireside Woman. "They didn't have all the problems of the present day to worry about."

"How do you know?" asked the Fireside Woman, searching hastily through a confused jumble of ideas about Madame de Maintenon, Diana of Poitiers and Madame de Maitenon, for some recollection of Madame de Stael.

"Don't you remember her reply to Bonaparte when he asked in what manner he could best promote the happiness of France?"

"I can't say that I do," murmured the Fireside Woman. "I have such a bad memory."

"She said, 'Instruct the mothers of the French people.' Doesn't that answer speak volumes as to the depth and quality of her own thought and of her far-sightedness? Imagine a woman, who could see all that such a woman would mean to women and to a nation, being restricted by the conventionalities of the French life of her day? As it was, she was a power. But suppose she had had the opportunities for study and work of the women of today, what wouldn't she have accomplished? It is terrible to think how such women were cramped and confined."

"I guess she was as happy as the women of today."

"She may have been happier than other women of her day; but with her abilities, she would have been happier today than she was then; because she could have lived a fuller life. A life whose activities corresponded to her thought. For instance, how she would have worked to instruct the mothers of the nation, and what joy it would have been to her far-seeing mind to help to forward such work. Think what it means for the mothers of a nation to be right in the forefront of the thought of the world."

"I think mothers ought to be instructed in the care of children," said the Fireside Woman.

"To be sure. But that is only part of their work. To properly feed and clothe a child, and brush his hair and clean his teeth, is only the beginning, the foundation, as it were, of a mother's work. These things need to be thoroughly well done, but after all they are the least important. A mother needs to keep ahead of her child mentally, or rather, to lead and inspire. And she needs to do the same spiritually. And so she needs to be in step with the best thought of the day. If the mothers of a nation are an intelligent, alert body of women, informed on all the questions of the times; and with high moral standards, the welfare of that nation is assured. I think Madame de Stael could have sounded no truer note for a nation's happiness than the instruction of the mothers of the people."

LOANED SULZER $26,500; HAS NOT BEEN REPAYED

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
New York, Sept. 16.—Hugh J. Reilly, a contractor and railroad builder for the Cuban government, today's witnesses before the sulzer board of impeachment managers, said that he loaned Governor Sulzer $26,500 in cash shortly after his nomination. Governor Sulzer, he said, still owed him this money in addition to other loans which brought his total indebtedness to Mr. Reilly up to $26,500.

Mr. Reilly was examined in private before the impeachment managers attorney and this is what he told the newspaper men he testified. Reilly was questioned regarding his dealings with Mr. Sulzer when the latter was chairman of the foreign relations committee in the house of representatives in connection with claims Reilly was pressing against the Cuban government. Their relations were referred to in recent litigation in which Reilly was involved.

Sulzer asked me for a $10,000 loan just after he was nominated," said Reilly. "He came to my house and I paid him the money in cash in the presence of my wife. I did not take any note for it. I had had previous experience with Sulzer's notes. I would pay me back in dribs and drabs, but when I gave him that $10,000 it brought his total debt to me up to $26,500 dating back over a long period. I did not want to lend him the $16,000 and told him not to get a swelled head just because he'd been nominated but he promised to pay me back the next February and so I gave it to him. He never paid it and he still owes me $26,500."

Taken to Hospital.
James D. Scott and George Morath, young boys afflicted with epileptic attacks, were taken to the state hospital in Gillipolis late Monday by Sheriff Henry Rinehart.

Byron Prior returned on Monday evening from a trip to Ohio, where he resigned his position.

GRAND JURY

At 3:30 this afternoon announcement was made that the grand jury will report about 4 o'clock.

LOOKING OVER RECRUITS FOR FOOTBALL TEAM

With the opening of Denison University on Thursday for the fall semester, Coach Livingston and Captain Black of the 1933 football team are busy looking over the new arrivals for likely players and in rounding up the members of the last year's team.

Six of the members of the regular 1932 team graduated and three others, Thompson, Brown and Mitchell will not return to school this year. The members of last year's team, which will form the nucleus for this season, are: Roubesh, guard; Williams, center; Biggs, guard; Williams, halfback; Haskins, end; Curtin, guard; Wickenden, end; Schropp, quarterback; Tuttle, guard and Black. This means that three of last year's star players, Roubesh, Reese and Black will again fight the battles for old Denison.

From last year's second team, Bruce, tackle; Sellers, fullback and Matthews, fullback, will probably make the varsity team. Coach Livingston is also counting on securing a number of good players from last year's freshman team, which was especially classy. The players who will be given a chance to make good are Hickman, Waite, Schock, Theille, Stankard, Ward, Woodyard and Ladd. Ladd stands a very good chance for quarterback on the varsity as he played a brilliant game last year with the freshman team.

Coach Livingston issued the first call for practice this afternoon, and a large number of candidates were on the field.

Manager Harold Chaille, of Detroit, has not arrived in Granville yet but is expected on Wednesday. The first regular game will be played October 4 with Ohio Northern University at Granville. Lester Black, the captain, is a brilliant player being the star player of his team for several seasons. His work featured all the games he played while a member of the Newark High School team. This is his first year as captain, and while the team will be light as compared with last year's, he expects it to be speedy.

The recruits look good, and the members of the last year's team who have returned are all clever players. The schedule this year is an attractive one and one that it will be hard to beat, but Coach Livingston and Captain Black expect with the material on hand to make one of the fastest squads Denison has ever had.

FIND WOMAN DEAD IN HER APARTMENTS

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Toledo, Sept. 16.—Blinded by a sunbonnet, Mrs. Jimma Denton, 55, walked to her death beneath a terminal railway locomotive at 6 o'clock this morning. The aged woman who had lived alone, was picking up bits of coal along the railroad track when the train advanced.

Health and Beauty Hints

BY MRS. MAE MARTIN.

Mrs. O. L. You complain of brittle, faded hair. You will find that keeping the scalp clean and healthy is the most effective way to restore the natural beauty and softness, but in selecting your shampoo avoid soap containing "free" alkali. By dissolving a teaspoonful of borax in a cup of water you will have a mild, soothing, cleansing mixture that makes an excellent hair and scalp treatment. It will remove all dirt, dandruff and excess oil, leaving the scalp clean and healthy and securing a natural growth of long, lustrous, fluffy hair.

Katie: Yes, powder has ruined more complexions than it has helped. While you use it you can hope for nothing better than an imitation of that old advice, "keep your face as free from your own skin as possible." Take a small amount of water and mix a little of the powder with water. Apply the paste to the forehead, nose and cheeks in 2 or 3 minutes rub off and the hairs will come with it. After the skin is washed and dried, it will be velvety and free from hair or blemish.

Maurice: The yellow, yellow color of your neck and chin, or what you speak of as "foxiness," is caused by sluggish blood and which is not properly eliminating the poisons from the system. Try this blood purifier and tonic: Into a pint of water put 4 ounces of Epsom salt, 1 ounce of soda, 1 ounce of sugar and 1 ounce of water. Take a tablespoonful of this mixture three times a day before each meal. This is a splendid remedy for "foxiness" and restores the blood to its normal color and its timely use will save much serious sickness.

Elaine: Yes, there is a harmless way to make your eyes sparkle, a way that will also strengthen and rid them of that dull ache and the feeling of tiredness. Make use of the following eye tonic: Dissolve 1 ounce of crystal clear water, then put 2 drops in each eye a few times daily. It is an excellent thing for granulated eyelids, to reduce inflammation and take out soreness.

Miss C. Dandruff is the cause of your trouble. Cleanse the scalp thor-

Tell me the proper pronunciation of "viennese?"
Vi-ne-see is preferred to "Vie-neese," but both are right.

Do several of the states lay a tax-poll or otherwise—on all males of legal age? If so, is not payment by a foreigner during the time required to qualify for citizenship taxation without representation?

A poll tax or any other of the existing taxes when it falls upon an alien resident is taxation without representation. The alien has his remedy, however, in obtaining citizenship papers, and, moreover, no government is obligated, save by possible foreign interposition, to do so much as admit an alien. Much less is it obligated to allow him rights belonging to inhabitants.

Of what is sponge made?
Of a fibrous substance composed of cells produced by tiny sea animals.

What is the nature of the organization known as the D. A. R.?

The Daughters of the American Revolution is a women's society, formed in Washington in 1890, with a national organization, branches in nearly all the states and a membership of about 95,000. Any woman is eligible for membership who is of the age of eighteen years and who is descended from an ancestor who "with unflinching loyalty rendered material aid to the cause of independence as a recognized patriot, as soldier or sailor or as a civil officer in one of the several colonies or states or of the united colonies or states," provided that the applicant shall be acceptable to the society. Every application for membership must be indorsed by at least one member of the national society and is then submitted to the registrar general, who reports on the question of eligibility to the board of management.

Peoria, 66,950; Springfield, 51,678; Rockford, 45,401; Quincy, 36,252.

What is the meaning of the name Frankenstein, which is used in the sense of a person who created beings?

Frankenstein was the hero of a novel by Mrs. Shelley, published at first without the author's name in 1818. He was a student who in the course of his delving into the obscure problems of nature succeeded in the creation of artificial life. His product was a monster who killed his friend and pursued Frankenstein from land to land begging for a mate.

What is the population of Cuba?

Self Help For Nervous Persons

Can often be achieved by a simple change of food and drink. Much nervousness is caused by coffee drinking—eminent medical authorities having demonstrated that the coffee drug, caffeine, is a definite nerve poison to many persons.

Coffee has no food value whatever and is a deceitful friend. Under its use the nerves first become irritated; then so sensitive, and "on edge" that a light variation from general health often appears most serious to its victim.

However, Nature responds quickly to common-sense treatment, and right living frequently does more than medicine. So, if you value peace and comfort, try this easy experiment.

Stop coffee entirely and have hot, well-made

POSTUM

This pure food-drink made from prime wheat has a Java-like flavor and a fine dark brown color which changes to rich golden brown when cream is added.

It contains the genuine nourishing elements of the grain, but is absolutely free from the coffee drug, or any other harmful ingredient.

Postum comes in two forms.

Regular Postum must be well boiled.

Instant Postum is a soluble powder. A spoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a very palatable beverage instantly.

Thousands have been wonderfully benefited by using Postum instead of coffee—

"There's a Reason"

BIG INCREASE IN EXPORTATION OF FOREIGN BEEF

ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM

Washington, Sept. 16.—Enormous increase in the amount of exports in foreign beef is noted by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, which announced to-day that the exports of such meat during June, July and August approximated three million pounds. The most of this great volume of supplies came from Australia and Argentina. It nearly equalled for the three months the amount brought into the United States during the entire fiscal year ending with May 31 last.

The meat ranges in cost from seven to ten cents a pound in the country of origin. To this, of course, is added the transportation and other charges and the custom duty of one and one half cents a pound. It is expected that the exportations of beef will be increasing heavily throughout the fiscal year, and especially with the passage of the pending tariff bill and removal of duties on meat importation.

With the growth of the trade, more lines of refrigeration ships will be inaugurated, and arrangements are being made for the purchase of several of such lines through American capital.

The Human Procession

Alfred Noyes, the distinguished English poet who recently visited America as a "peace emissary," will celebrate his thirty-third birthday to-day. Mr. Noyes enjoys an enviable distinction among bards in that, from the very beginning of his career, he has been able to dine regularly from the proceeds of his verse. The young poet who lives in an attic and subsists on occasional request of bread and beer and cheese is a common enough figure, but the bard who can translate the muses into "three squares" per diem, and who lives in a luxurious hotel, is unique in literature.

Mr. Noyes was born in Staffordshire, September 16, 1880, and was educated at Oxford. He had just attained his majority when he published his first volume of verse, "The Loom of Years." This was followed by numerous lyric contributions to the leading magazines and reviews of England and America, most of which have been brought out in book form and have enjoyed a large sale on both sides of the Atlantic. The intrinsic value of the efforts of the youthful poet won high praise from such competent critics as Edmund Gosse, Swinburn, Kipling and Watts-Dunton.

The poet is famed as an apostle of peace, but he doesn't look the part. He is husky of frame, over six feet in height, and a thorough athlete, having pulled an oar in the college eight at Oxford for three years. His wife is an American woman, the daughter of a United States army officer. As a lecturer the poet is polished in diction, but his enunciation is vigorous, and he talks straight from the shoulder. He looks like one of those peace advocates who are so determined to have peace that they are willing to fight for it. And, for all his wooing of the muses and his praise of the gentle dove, Mr. Noyes appears able to put up a lively scrimmage.

"I see no reason to apologize because the practice of my art enables me to live in comfort and pay my bills," declares the prosperous poet. "Painters live by their art, so do sculptors and novelists. Why not poets?"

Why not, indeed? There doesn't seem to be any reason, except that it isn't customary. All the more glory to Mr. Noyes for having overthrown the custom.

James Jerome Hill, the great railroad builder of the Northwest, will pass his seventy-fifth milestone today. He was born on a farm near Guelph, Ont., September 16, 1839. He emigrated at an early age to Minnesota, and began his transportation career in a St. Paul steamboat office. What Cecil Rhodes accomplished for the British Empire in South Africa, Hill achieved for the United States, and his title of "The Grand Old Man of the Northwest" has been fully merited. The eminent Scotch-Canadian has done more for the development of the resources of his adopted country than any other living man. The rich Northwest, with its broad farms and fertile fields and its network of railroads and its thriving cities, is a monument to Hill's energy and ability and breadth of vision—a monument that any king might well envy.

Charles Battell Loomis, the humorist was born in Brooklyn fifty-two years ago today. Before winning fame as an author he was a grocery clerk and a chicken peddler. He is one of the most solemn-faced of men, and looks about as much like a professional funny man as a St. Patrick's Day parade resembles a funeral procession.

Make All Prisoners Better Men

By THOMAS MOTT OSBORNE, Chairman of the Commission on Prison Reform of New York State

THE old barbaric theory which regarded the treatment of criminals as a matter of retribution, of punishment, has given way to the CIVILIZED THEORY OF REFORM, to the idea that the present theory of the law must be changed.

ITS AIM SHOULD NEVER BE PUNISHMENT, BUT PREVENTION AND REFORM; THAT THE THEORY OF PUNISHMENT IS CONDEMNED BY OUR RELIGION, DISCARDED BY EXPERIENCE, CONTRARY TO OUR DEMOCRATIC IDEALS AND A DISGRACE TO OUR CIVILIZATION.

Do away with crime instruction and in its place build the prisoner into a useful member of society. TEACH HIM HOW TO BE SUCH A CITIZEN and then give him the opportunity to put into practice what he has learned.

Making Life Easier for Women.

"I wonder why it is," said the Forward-looking Woman meditatively, "that everything in life has been made harder for women than men."

"Harder for women?" exclaimed the Fireside Woman, her eyes opening wide with amazement. "That's the first time I ever heard that doctrine. I always thought woman had a snap."

"Isn't that because you have thought superficially about the matter or have not thought at all? It was brought home to me the other day by this little thing I read, 'There ain't nothin' from goin' upstairs totin' a baby in one han' and a lamp in de odder, and tryin' to hol' up your frock wid yo' teeth, down to tryin' to vote and gittin' flung out of de pollin' place because you belongs to de angel sect; dat bit ain't harder to do because you is a woman.' When you come to think of this, isn't it true?"

"Well, it might be,—for some women," slowly admitted the Fireside Woman.

"What is a hardship for one woman is a hardship for all, if they know it," said the Forward-looking Woman. "It may bear more heavily on some than on others, but that makes it none the less a hardship. And as such it retards her fullest development; and, if a woman is to come to the best of which she is capable, should be removed. But thank goodness, most of these things that have complicated woman's problem of living can be straightened out, for they are not matters that belong inherently to sex. They have been loaded upon her through the ages by circumstances or environment or thoughtless selfishness. Dress, for one thing has been made harder for women, also earning a living and owning property. It is high time, I think that women were getting busy and taking some of these unnecessary kinks out of them."

"I don't see how it is going to be done," sighed the Fireside Woman. "Oh, when women as a whole body realize the foolishness and uselessness of the burdens they are carrying, it will be done," responded the Forward-looking Woman cheerily. "There is a good deal of confusion yet, both in the issues presented and in the manner of presenting them. And women neither see nor hear them clearly. But this will not last, and when the atmosphere clears and the noise dies down, women will not only quickly see the value of the improved conditions offered them, but as quickly grasp them. These improved conditions will be so apparent that no one who has any brains or decisiveness whatever but will rejoice over the change. It makes me very joyful indeed to look forward to the time when dress, both as to cost and style, will not be the handicap it is at present; when the conditions under which women work and the remuneration she gets will be based on law and not on sex when the woman who owns property will have a voice in all matters affecting her property. And I want to help bring about these better conditions of living for women. Helping in a work like that makes life worth living."

ATTY. T. L. KING WILL SUCCEED GEO. W. HORTON

Formal resignation of Magistrate George W. Horton as justice of the peace of Newark township, was presented to the board of trustees of the township and to the clerk of the courts Monday night, under date of Sept. 15, and to become effective Sept. 18.

The retiring magistrate gives up his place to accept the state appointment recently tendered him as deputy state oil inspector for this district.

Township trustees Mac Monahan, Stephen Vermillion and E. D. Everts at a meeting Monday evening elected Attorney Thomas L. King to succeed Mr. Horton and the new 'squire' will assume his duties Friday, Sept. 19.

THANK PUBLIC FOR ASSISTANCE TO THE OUTING

I desire to thank the public for their generosity towards the Salvation Army free outing. About sixty people, including the babies, spent an enjoyable day, with the several treats that they received from the Newark citizens, for this special day.

There were races for the children and the mothers also, and given for different prizes that were given for that purpose. The day was well spent and the park authorities were anxious to make it a success and they filled up a bushel basket with cracker jack, and bags of well roasted peanuts, which added to the occasion, a special test of pleasure from these gentlemen.

Returning home with rosy cheeks of laughter, and satisfaction, tired and happily thankful to God and all, for a beautiful day's outing at Buckeye Lake.

At a meeting of the official board of the First Methodist church held Monday night, a resolution was adopted asking for the return of Dr. L. C. Sparks to the pastorate of the church. The resolution will be presented at the annual conference soon to be held. Dr. Sparks has been pastor of the first church for more than ten years and during his pastorate, the church has enjoyed a splendid increase in membership and strength. It was largely through the efforts of Dr. Sparks that the new church edifice was built.

HOLLAND WOMEN WILL BE GRANTED RIGHT TO VOTE

ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM
The Hague, Netherlands, Sept. 16.—There is every indication that women will shortly be given the parliamentary franchise in Holland.

In the speech from the throne delivered at the opening of the state's general today the new Dutch cabinet stated its intention of granting the vote to women.

The speech from the throne says that a bill is to be introduced removing all constitutional obstacles in the way of granting the suffrage to women. The same bill will revise the Dutch constitution in such way as to extend the parliamentary franchise to all male Dutch subjects on reaching a certain age, with exceptions to be determined later. The bill is to be prepared without delay.

L. C. B. A. Meets.

The L. C. B. A. will meet with Mrs. James Schaughnessy at her home in Elmwood avenue, on Wednesday evening.

Criticism of Schools Entirely Without Foundation

By PHILANDER P. CLAXTON, United States Commissioner of Education

WE frequently hear that there are "too many fads and frills," and hence neglect of the fundamentals. The critics who utter this sort of criticism SELDOM FREE ON EXACTLY WHAT THE FADS AND FRILLS ARE. But they invariably look back to a golden past when the so called "fundamentals"—reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic—were taught in such a way as never to be forgotten.

AS A MATTER OF FACT, THE SYSTEM OF TODAY IS IMMENSELY AHEAD OF THE SCHOOL SYSTEM OF THE PAST. THE GROWTH HAS BEEN STEADY. WHATEVER MAY BE SAID AGAINST THE ENRICHMENT OF THE COURSE OF STUDY, ITS "FADS AND FRILLS," THE CONTENTION THAT THE ESSENTIALS, SO CALLED, HAVE SUFFERED IN COMPARISON WITH THE PAST FALLS FLAT.

Those who criticize the bookish curriculum of the public school, whether elementary or high school, are really striving for what they conceive to be the changed purpose of education—to REACH ALL THE CHILDREN OF ALL THE PEOPLE with the kind of training that will make them not merely intelligent in respect to things that are in books, but will EQUIP THEM DIRECTLY FOR THE KIND OF LIFE, ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL, WHICH THEY WILL LEAD WHEN THEY LEAVE SCHOOL. Those who oppose the innovations do so because they do not concede this broader though apparently more specialized purpose.

SUPREME COURT BEGINS SESSION AFTER VACATION

ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM

Columbus, Sept. 16.—After a two-months' vacation the Supreme Court formally got down to business today, holding its first session of the fall term. Because of the fact that the members of the court, although individually they have gone over a number of cases during the summer, had not held official consultations, no decisions were announced.

Next Tuesday will be the first regular decision day although it was stated today that several decisions may be given in the meantime. One of the cases in which early action is anticipated is the Cleveland charter case in which the court is expected to pass on the application of Attorney General Hogan for rehearing. Governor Cox said today that he has not as yet taken any action relative to the selection of a chief justice of the Supreme court.

"It is all up to the court," said the governor. "Members of the court are said to have considered the matter of recommending one of the number to the governor but according to reports were unable to agree. Governor Cox, it is said, is desirous of appointing the position to a man who will be acceptable to the members of the court and is withholding official action pending its recommendation."

CONFERENCE OF B. & O. OFFICIALS IS POSTPONED

Notice has been sent out from Baltimore and received here Monday to the effect that the annual conference of officials of all divisions of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad system, which was to have been held in Deer Park, Md., this week, has been indefinitely postponed. The conference is an annual affair having as its purpose a general improvement of traffic conditions over the system. The later date will be announced by officials, probably some time this month.

102 APPLICANTS SEEK LICENSE FOR SALOONS

By November 5, the 102 applicants for liquor license in Newark county will know their standing with the county commission. All applications were in within the required time and none made effort to push after the local time set for the board to shut them out. Names of the applicants are listed elsewhere in this issue of the Advocate.

Members of the commission were to meet Tuesday, when hearings will begin. Secretary O. C. Larason said there might be no hearings. This is based on the assumption that no protests are filed. Protests may be filed any time between now and November 4. The license year begins November 15, and the agent of information in possession of the commission to date is that applicants are not yet in business and will have from November 5 to November 24 to quit business and dispose of their stocks.

No protests had been filed up to late Tuesday. The commission will not determine until the date of hearings until late Tuesday. It is probable the last week allowed for hearings will be devoted to investigating all protests and examining the witnesses. With the preceding week devoted to general investigation of the applicants.

A decision from the state board likely will be required to determine just how many saloons will be allotted to Newark. The last federal census gave Newark a population of 24,000. The commission is undecided as to whether Newark will get the fifty saloons only, on a basis of one to every 480 population, or whether the extra 400 would entitle another saloon to license, making a total of fifty-one in Newark.

In the county beyond Newark city limits, five may be allowed; three in Union and two at Backeye lake. Or should the commission find none of the applications for these places up to the required standard, none would be allowed in either place.

At the end of the license year, those who were originally granted licenses and are still in business, must present formal application for renewal, and go through with practically the same formality as in applying for a new license, say members of the commission.

The commission is puzzled also for a decision in a case where an applicant is operating one or more saloons elsewhere in the state. Whether this applicant may be permitted to operate in several counties, is one of the questions yet to be decided.

The following were the last to make application, Monday:

Adison M. Black, rear 174 Backingham street.
George H. Froeholtz, 223 East Main street.
John W. Brown, 215 East Main street.
U. G. Craig, 23 South Fourth street.
Wm. L. Sex, 71 Union street.
George Johnson, 15 South Fourth street.

CATSUP SPRINKLED FACE OF WITNESS

Thoroughly saturated with catsup, which splattered from a bottle thrown at the head of "Buck" McCann, a bricklayer, a man who was slated as a witness was arrested Monday afternoon when Patrolman Abbott and Headquarters Officer Moore responded to a call to South Second street. McCann and two companions were locked up. McCann being charged with insulting Estella Loughman, employed in a South Second street restaurant. It was claimed that McCann entered the place and made himself obnoxious, later making an insulting remark to the woman employee. One of the men employed in the place appeared at this juncture and hurled a bottle of catsup at McCann. The contents splattered over the face of one of McCann's companions. For a time, pedestrians on the street thought the man was seriously injured, as the catsup looked very much like human gore. McCann pleaded not guilty when arraigned in police court Tuesday morning and his hearing was set for 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

JUDGE WANTS HEARING.

Emory Speer of Savannah, Ga., Answers His Accusers.

Washington—Following the bringing of charges in congress against Judge Emory Speer of Savannah, Ga., the justice at once forwarded to Henry Clayton, chairman of the judiciary committee of the house, an informal answer to all the charges.

In his answer the judge states that it is the only source of information was through the newspapers, and he asked for a copy of the original charges.

JUDGE EMORY SPEER.

He denied each of the allegations and wants a hearing just as soon as he recovers from an attack of hay fever.

Among the charges was one that Judge Speer aided his son-in-law by giving him appointments in court. This was emphatically denied. Answering the charge that he was temperamentally unfit for a judicial station, Judge Speer says that he only insists on order and decorum in his courtroom. He asserted that the men who "attempted to defame me in their statements were counsel for defendants in cases of great embezzlement or representatives of predatory interests."

PRIORITY OF DEATH TO FIX GREAT ESTATE

Relatives of Aged Couple Fight For $1,000,000 Fortune.

Springfield, Mass.—Disposition of a $1,000,000 estate hinges on whether Sherman D. Porter or his wife died first in a grade crossing accident at South Deerfield. According to the medical examiners, both were killed instantly.

Relatives on both sides are aligned for a legal fight. The case may be further complicated if Mr. Porter's will makes a substantial bequest to his chauffeur, who was for many years in his service and whom the railroad company blames for the accident.

Since the fatality the Porter home has been visited by relatives who were never entertained there in the lifetime of Mr. and Mrs. Porter. He was eighty and his wife much younger. If it can be established that his death occurred an instant before hers, her relatives would become heirs to the estate. His relatives intimate that the will bears a pallid which alters the provisions of the instrument if her death should occur before his.

Under old court rulings, when husband and wife perished together, the wife was presumed to have died first, being the weaker of the two, but later rulings have been based on close inquiry into all the circumstances. The relative ages of the two, it is said, may become determining factors in the Porter case.

Mr. Porter made a fortune in the candy business and at the time of his death was president of the Kibbe Bros. Manufacturing company, wholesale confectioners and importers.

TO JAIL TO SAVE FATHER.

Rough Rider Sacrifices His Liberty. Mother Caught Gun Man.

Craig, Colo.—Eugene H. Decker and Clarence E. Decker, father and son, who were tried at this time of the district court on the charge of horse stealing, were found guilty and innocent respectively. The son is one of the most widely known cow men and rough riders in this country. The horse was the property of Ira H. Olmstead.

Young Decker pleaded guilty in order to free his aged father of complicity in the crime. His mother single handed captured William Morgan, the notorious Hole-in-the-Wall gun man, last fall after Morgan had for three weeks eluded sheriff parties in three counties.

Boy of Three Lost Two Days in Wilds. Muskogee, Okla.—After tramping two days over the mountains without food, Oran Trammell, a three-year-old boy who had wandered away from a construction camp at Woodstan, was found by James Payne, an old hunter. Payne declined the reward of $500 offered by J. T. Trammell, the child's father. The country through which the child wandered was infested with wolves and wildcats.

D. D. D. Opens New Era in Cure of Skin Disease

Professor Badlam's cure of eczema was known to almost every hospital and physician of reputation throughout the state of Connecticut. The latter is another interesting demonstration of what is being accomplished by the famous specific D. D. D. First, eczema, it may be of interest to you to know that your life-saving preparation, D. D. D. Prescription, has been of incalculable value to me. I was covered with eczema from head to foot when I began using your remedies. I could get no relief, although I tried a thousand means. I applied but two bottles of the Prescription and a cure was effected in a very short time, in less than one month."—Prof. C. J. Badlam, South Lyme, Conn.

Ask any druggist today for D. D. D. Prescription. He'll tell you it always cures the itch instantly—and soon there are signs of cure.

We have handled the remedy for years and regard it as the specific for skin troubles of all kinds. Come in or ask us about D. D. D. Prescription, also about D. D. D. soap especially for tender skins.

We offer the first full size bottle on the guarantee that unless it stops the itch at once, it costs you not a cent.

A Modern Bogy.

I wonder why the idea seems to be prevalent that if women voted, there would be a grand exodus from the home," remarked the Forward-looking Woman.

"Because there would be," responded the Fireside Woman virtuously. "They would be rushing around to the polls, and to political meetings, and drumming up people to vote for their candidates, and all that."

The Forward-looking Woman laughed. "They are wonderful stay-at-homes now, aren't they? They never go on all-day shopping expeditions, or to club meetings or at tournaments, or things like that, do they?"

"But that's different," responded the Fireside Woman. "They must have some recreation."

"If they undertook to vote, they ought to know what they are doing," said the Fireside Woman with a fine air of conscientious conviction.

"To be sure. But it isn't going to take them all day every day to inform themselves on politics. This cry about woman's neglecting her home, if she left the ballot, is just a bogy. Listen to what George William Curtis says about it, 'I know that at the very mention of the political rights of women, there arises in many minds a dreadful vision of a mighty exodus of the whole female world in bloomers and spectacles from nursery and kitchen to the polls. It seems the house would be left a howling wilderness of cradles, a chaos of undarned stockings and buttonless shirts. But do men desert their workshops, their plows, and their offices to pass their time at the polls? Now why should a woman spend any more time at the polls or at political meetings than men?'"

The Fireside Woman was silent.

"I presume it would take a woman half an hour to go to the polls and vote," went on the Forward-looking Woman. "And that time would be much better used in that way than in hanging over the back fence gossiping with her neighbor. And this is the way a good deal of woman's time is spent nowadays. The reasons, or rather the queer propositions called reasons, that are put up for woman's not having the ballot are funny. The strange thing to me is that some people believe them so religiously."

"But it might be very inconvenient to go vote," persisted the Fireside Woman.

"It is never inconvenient to do what you want to. If a lot of bargains were offered at the polls, you'd get there."

"It would be a matter of saving money then, and a woman ought to be economical," replied the Fireside Woman, once more adjusting her virtuous air.

"Putting the right candidate in is a matter of saving money too," observed the Forward-looking Woman, "saving in a big way. But lots of people do not seem to be able to see that far. But that is another story. What I am rising to remark is that a woman would no more neglect her home by going to vote than would a man. And it is all fudge to say she would."

TERRIBLE ITCHING OF SKIN TROUBLE

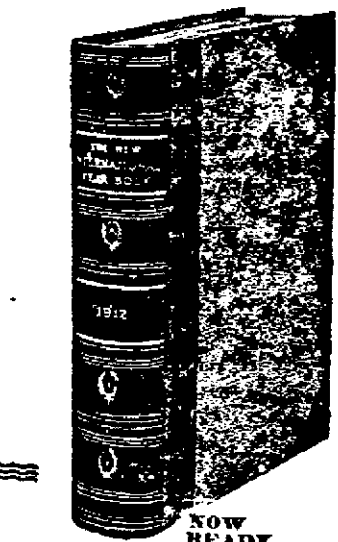

Small Red and Yellow Spots on Leg.
Covered with Dry Scale. Had to Walk Floor Nights. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment Cured.

R. F. D. No. 3, Clarkfield, Minn. — "My trouble was of long standing. It started with some small red and yellow spots about the size of a pin head on my leg and every morning there was a dry scale on top covering the affected part and when those scales were falling off the itching was more than I could stand at times.
The first year I did not mind it so much as it was only itching very badly at times, but the second year it advanced all around my leg and the itching was terrible.
I had to be very careful to have my clothing around the affected part very loose. As night time I often happened to scratch the sores in my sleep. Then I had to stand up, get out of bed and walk the floor.
"Then I read the advertisement of Cuticure Soap and Ointment and I wrote for a sample and got it. To my surprise I was feeling relief after the second application.
So I got a cake of Cuticura Soap and a fifty-cent box of Cuticura Ointment and when I had used them I was nearly over the itching, so I got another box and that healed it all up so it looked smooth and fine, but I kept on with the Cuticura Soap for six weeks and the cure is complete." (Signed) S. O.
Gordon, Nov. 20, 1912.

Cuticura Soap 25c, and Cuticura Ointment 50c, are sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 25-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticure Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

Result in the Pine Tree State Voices Little Real Sentiment Because Underwood-Simmons Tariff Bill Must Be First Tried Out—On the Outcome
Depends Fate of Political Parties.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Sept. 16. — [Special.] —
One swallow does not make a summer, and one congressional election does not forecast a political campaign, although attempts have been made to show that the Third district in Maine has proved a number of things. The consensus of opinion as expressed by party leaders may be summed up as follows:

Democrat—The district is normally Republican; it elected a Republican last fall; there is nothing strange in seeing a Republican elected this year, but remember it was by a very small plurality.

Republican—The Democrats made it a national campaign, sending their biggest guns on the stump; the Progressive vote fell off one-half; the Progressives are coming back; the Republicans are sure to win.

Progressive—The district was Republican; there was no candidate for congress on the Progressive ticket last year; both parties made the greatest effort of their lives; the Progressives made a good showing under the circumstances.

The Real Opinion.

Getting under the surface and learning the real opinion, we find that no one has any cause for rejoicing. It appears that after analyzing the vote there is mighty little comfort for any party. The voters of the country have not yet made up their minds on polititics. The Underwood-Simmons bills must be tried out before there can be anything like an accurate expression of opinion. Upon that bill depends the fate of political parties in the next few years.

Progressives a Political Entity.

Victor Murdock, the Progressive leader in the house, says that "the Maine election means that the Progressive party is a political entity. It means that 6,000 men in one congressional district, without hope of success and without the personality of Roosevelt to aid them, stood together for principles and that they will stand together in the future."

Boosting Underwood.

Minority Leader Mann quoted Leader Underwood the other day and added, "That was spoken by the leader of the house, who holds the Democratic majority in the hollow of his hand."
That is a good remark just now,
when Underwood is on the point of entering the race for the senate in Alabama. Mann likes Underwood.

Pleasure Before Business.

Chairman Adamson of the interstate commerce committee was advocating the abolition of the commerce court.
"It was a great mistake," he said.
"That mistake was caused by the absence of our members at a baseball game. A newspaper in the district I represent, noticing that members were dragged away from the baseball park to make a quorum, remarked: 'They ought to have more sense than to try to hold a session of congress during a baseball game.'"

The empty seats in the house during the discussion of the currency bill is due to the fact that the Washington team is playing on the home grounds.

Concerning Governor Foss.

"The Democratic governor of Massachusetts has moved his factory to Canada on account of the proposed tariff," said Mondell of Wyoming.

"He also moved his politics into the Republican party," replied Hardwick of Georgia.

"Not yet," said Mondell.
"He went to a Republican convention, and we are no longer responsible for him," declared Hardwick.

"But there has been no convention," responded Mondell.

"Well, he has been edging that way, but has not got into the Republican party yet," said Hardwick.

"We are glad to welcome anybody into the Republican ranks," said Mon-dell.

"That's not to be wondered at," retorted Hardwick, "there are so few of you left."

Monetary Information.

The Congressional Record is overflowing with information about money these days. Members are privileged to print what they think, and others are saying what they think. If all these views were facts they would be a most valuable contribution to the financial world. As it is there is a vast amount of information, much of it wrong, going out to the public day by day.

"Made a Stagger at It."

Every day or two John Sharp Wil-lams introduces some homely phrase into the tariff debate. McCumber of North Dakota was complaining about the low duty or removal of duty on flax, and the Mississippi man remarked, "Unless my memory fails me, and it is becoming somewhat confused, the senator asked that question yesterday and made a stagger at a reply to it."

Mrs. James Sheridan has returned from a visit in Martinsburg, W. Va.

Progressive Senators for Democratic Tariff

Senators Robert M. La Follette and Miles Poindexter, both westerners, the one of Wisconsin, and the other of Washington, voted with the Democratic majority in favor of the Underwood tariff bill in the senate.
Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, nor any one else in the upper chamber, knew the two would give their support. Consequently their action was a great surprise. The grounds each took was the general proposition that while they did not like the bill they considered it better than the Payne-Aldrich tariff law.

8,700 APPLY FOR LICENSE IN THE STATE

(Associated Press Telegram) Columbus, Sept. 16.—Today the battle of protests against applicants for saloon licenses may begin, since yesterday was the last day for filing applications.

Reports from a number of county boards received by the state board today indicate the total number of applicants in the state will be near 8,700.

Wayne H. Wheeler, superintendent of the Ohio anti-saloon league, has expressed pleasure over the prospective scramble among applicants for coveted saloon privileges.

Only one liquor license can be granted to a person or corporation, in the opinion of Attorney General Hogan which he gave the state liquor licensing board today.
